

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

THE Author would like to acknowledge the most important help he has had from the European Public Law Center during various years of continuous collaboration. Professor SPYRIDON FLOGAITIS and all those pertaining, one way or another, to the Center, are to be intensely thanked, de tout mon cœur, for areas where help is “invisible to the eye”.

In other areas help is quite tangible: one of the more significant obvious contributions the Author would like to acknowledge for this edition, is that of the EPLC through the exceptional collaboration and excellent hard work, deep insight and unfaltering patience and inspiration of Ms. KATERINA PAPANIKOLAOU and her colleagues at the EPLC, in the final stages of the four hard-laboured galley proofs of the book. These galleys were the object of an intensive ongoing mutual collaboration between the Author and the EPLC, during several months.

Yet the work started even earlier, quite a long time ago, first with the translation done in 2000 by Mr. MARCO ODELLO of the EPLC, then with the further linguistic revision by Ms ERICA STEIN which lasted many months. Both young and most able lawyers, whose work was also extremely fruitful, took part in many most rewarding discussions with the Author, during the first stages of the English rendition of the Spanish original. Their insight and indefatigable question proved invaluable to the betterment of the present book.

All these quite visible contributions have been of immense help to the Author. But perhaps the spark that begun this all, should rest with the institution itself, and its founders. The Author wishes to acknowledge that just as the English version of this book is dedicated to the loving memory of Judges CHARLES BREITEL of the USA and GENARO CARRIÓ of the Argentine Republic, so will the French version be dedicated to the very living presence and inspiration of the Present of the European Scientific Council of the EPLC, Mr. GUY BRAIBANT, for reasons that the reader will find upon reading the book.

Needless to say, none of this would have been possible without the trust and friendship of its Director, Professor SPYRIDON FLOGAITIS, who honours the Author with his Preface, and who sponsored this project from the very beginning, a few years ago.

To all of them, my deepest thanks.
